

Information Panels

The ambition of the Charity is to install a series of ten permanent storyboard panels at busy points of interest along a walk-able route around the Creek. Sites are being carefully considered and will complement existing trails and walking routes such as the Thames Path, Waterlink Way and Deptford Heritage Trail. The Boards will provide information about the Creek's development over time. This will include local stories, notable people and buildings. Each panel will highlight the Creek's past and present natural history. They will also describe the extent of the Creek, orientate the viewer within it and help create the sense of a linked neighbourhood.

The CreekLink Charity envisage realising the project in stages as funding becomes available and planning permissions secured.
